

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

STATE OF NEW YORK.

No. 20.

IN SENATE,

JANUARY 15, 1885.

SIXTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE NEW YORK STATE LIBRARY.

To the Legislature of the State of New York:

I have the honor herewith to transmit the Sixty-Seventh Annual Report of the Trustees of the New York State Library.

H. R. PIERSON,

Chancellor.

OFFICE OF THE REGENTS, January 8, 1885.

REPORT.

To the Legislature of the State of New York:

The Regents of the University, as trustees of the State Library, submit to the Legislature, in pursuance of law, their Sixty-seventh Annual Report.

Owing to the delay in the preparation of the rooms designed for the permanent occupancy of the library, it has been necessary to conduct its affairs under the same disadvantages which surrounded it at the date of the last annual report. The want of adequate space for the accommodation of readers has been seriously felt, but in even a greater degree the want of proper space in which to arrange the books, maps, pamphlets and other material composing the library has interposed serious hindrances to the usefulness of the library. It has been impossible to secure an arrangement of the books which would furnish that ready access to the works in the library which is the end of its establishment. A heavy burden has been imposed on the librarians under these circumstances to meet so far as possible the legitimate wishes of the readers. The duplicate stock of the library is stored in a very inadequate and inconvenient room in the basement, and it is impossible to conduct the system of exchanges of the library on a proper scale.

In the meantime, however, progress is made in the preparation of the rooms. The walls have been completed and much has been done toward the construction of the ceilings and galleries. The librarians have been engaged in studying out the proper arrangement of the books, and in laying out for the use of the architect a plan for the construction of the cases. A serious difficulty has arisen on account of the diversion of a portion of the space designed for the law library to other uses. The service of the law library requires a large amount of floor space for the arrangement of the books. The portion left for it without some further addition is quite inadequate. The library is an institution which by its very nature and constitution must have space for growth. The number of books has doubled in the past twenty years, and it may be estimated that in twenty years more it will contain not less than 250,000 volumes. The law library is only excelled in the whole country in number of volumes and in intrinsic value by the Law Department of the Congressional Library. It is plain, therefore, that in respect to the library at least an ample provision must be made for growth and expansion.

During the past year the room in the State Hall occupied by the historical records was demanded by the State Museum, and in consequence the whole of the material collected there was removed to the new Capitol and deposited in temporary quarters. The trustees have taken measures to have all this material incorporated with the other historical documents in the library, and arranged with it in the rooms of the library. The clerk in charge, Mr. Berthold Fernow, has completed the preparation of a volume to comprise a complete historical register of the soldiers from the State of New York, who were engaged in the Revolutionary war. This volume is now ready for publication, and only awaits a provision to be made by the Legislature for its publication.

The Legislature last winter made an appropriation of $5,000 for the purchase of the Tompkins papers. The negotiation has been completed, and these valuable treasures are now in the library. The work of editing and indexing the George Clinton papers has been continued by the Hon. George W. Clinton. The work on the original papers are essentially complete; but by a fortunate purchase the library has acquired a very material and important addition. When the arrangement and indexing of this collection of papers are completed they will form an important addition to our knowledge of the history of the revolutionary period. In an interesting report hereto appended, Judge Clinton has given an account of his work during the past year.

It has been deemed desirable by the trustees to change the date of closing the library-year from the end of the calendar year to the thirtieth day of September, which is the close of the fiscal year of the State. The purchases for the library are nearly all made during the nine months beginning with the first of October. The interval following this period gives the most fitting opportunity to close up not only the financial transactions of the library, but also to sum up the statements as to the additions to the library by purchase or by donation and exchange. On account of this change in the ending of the library year, the statement for the present year does not include the period from the first of October to the first of January, and in consequence presents a somewhat smaller addition than would have otherwise been reported.

The following summary statement shows the additions made to the library from January 1, 1884, to September 30, 1884:

At the close of the year 1883 :	Volumes.
In the general library	86,644
In the law library.....	35,042
Total	121,686

Added from January 1, 1884, to September 30, 1884:		Volumes.
To the general library	1, 358
To the law library	913
Total	2, 271
At the close of the library year, September 30, 1884:
In the general library	88, 002
In the law library	35, 955
Total	123, 957
Acquired by purchase:
For the general library	801
For the law library	360
Acquired by donation or exchange:
For the general library	557
For the law library	553
Total	2, 271

Notable among the donations was that of Erastus Corning, Esq., of Albany, who gave 440 volumes of New York Laws and Legislative documents; 507 volumes of Congressional documents; 104 volumes of the Congressional Globe; 316 volumes of miscellaneous documents, and ten bundles of odd numbers of periodicals, pamphlets, etc.

By the statutes regulating their establishment, the Court of Appeals library at Syracuse, the Court of Appeals library at Rochester, and the law libraries at Brooklyn, Buffalo and Saratoga, are required to make annual reports to the trustees of the State library. No report has been received from the library at Syracuse.

The Rochester library reports that 136 volumes have been added during the preceding year, of which 126 were by purchase, and ten by donation. The amount expended for books was $588.75. In addition the sum of $89.40 was expended for binding, and $39.98 for stationery, and $4.60 for postage. The librarian is Le Roy Satlerlee, who receives a salary of $1,200.

	Volumes.
Number of books reported in 1883.....	11, 320
Number added in 1884.....	136
Number at the end of 1884.....	11, 456

The Buffalo library reports the following additions :	Volumes.

APPENDIX I.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN OF THE GENERAL LIBRARY.

To the Regents of the University, Trustees of the State Library:

The number of volumes added to the general library during the nine months ending September 30, 1884, is 1,358, making the whole number of volumes in this department of the library at that date to be 88,042. The enumeration of the volumes covers only nine months, as the request was made by the trustees that the report on the library should henceforth be conformed to the State's fiscal year.

The library, as was anticipated at the time of making the last report, still continues in the temporary and contracted quarters in the Capitol, where it was placed last year, and it will continue there probably for at least a year longer. Students engaged in researches can in almost all cases be supplied as promptly as usual with the books which they desire. We have not, however, sufficient chairs and room to accommodate persons obtaining an education, and the learned class at the same time. Very little use has been made as yet of the permission of the trustees that the librarian should withhold the privilege of using them from young people if their presence was embarrassing.

In regard to additions made to the library during the past year, we have been obliged to abstain from the general orders for purchases from Europe, because the money appropriated by the State for purchases was so soon exhausted. The increase in number and costliness of the class of books called Americana, as pertaining to American history, is very marked. The firms engaged in the publication of county histories all over the United States are quite numerous. The histories which they publish, even when we obtain them at a considerable discount from the published price, cost the State frequently from five to ten dollars each. Usually no more copies of these histories are printed than are subscribed for. I see no sufficient reason for declining to purchase them, or for expecting that we will in the future be able to purchase them at a lower rate.

The most important purchases made for the library at any one sale were those made from the library of Henry C. Murphy of Brooklyn, although they amounted to not more than the sum of six hundred dollars, on account of our want of funds. Manuscripts amounting to over five hundred closely written folios were bought for the State at this sale, all of which refer to matters within the first fifteen years of the history of New Netherland and include the discovery of the North river by Henry Hudson in 1609. Mr. Murphy while resident at the Hague as Minister of the United States from 1857 to 1861, sedulously sought for any notices he could find of Hudson's voyage, in the records of the Dutch East and West India Companies at Amsterdam or the Hague, and he caused copies of them to be carefully made. These copies are included among these purchased papers.

But the most numerous and valuable of the whole are copies of papers and reports of Willem Usselincx, never yet printed. Usselincx's name does not appear in the subject-index to the Colonial History of New York, although it does occur in Brodhead's History of New York, yet with the development of the study of our early history, induced by that publication by the State, Usselincx's name has become one of exceeding prominence and interest. His career commenced about the year 1500, and though he never held a public office, he was pre-eminent among the founders of the Dutch East and West India Companies, especially of the latter. There are fifty printed publications from his pen from the year 1606 to 1644, nearly all of them having reference to the establishment and the success of these companies, which he influenced more than any private individual. An exile from Belgium along with one hundred and fifty thousand other Belgians, he designed that these companies by mercantile colonies like Manhattan, should be the means of overthrowing Spanish domination, the power of which was derived from the colonies. This West India Company in the early days of New Netherland was very prominent in shaping its affairs.

While residing in the Netherlands, Mr. Murphy, besides procuring the writings of Usselincx which have been printed, secured copies of several memoirs of his which never have been in print, and probably have neither been read or seen for two hundred years. They had been addressed by Usselincx to the States General or to W. I. Company in successive years from 1620 to 1644. It will be remembered that when Mr. Brodhead, the agent for New York in 1841, desired when in the Netherlands to secure copies of the records of the West India Company, he was greatly disappointed to learn that this material which he had regarded as his chief magazine of information, had been publicly sold as waste paper twenty years previously. Usselincx's name had not served him as a guide in searching among the archives either at the Hague or at Amsterdam. Mr. Murphy, however, was so fortunate as to obtain copies officially attested as correct, of four memorials addressed by Usselincx to the States General, recounting his own acts and those of the West India Company in favor of colonial extension. He was entitled to receive for his services a certain percentage of the profits. Besides translating one of Usselinex's papers from the Dutch, Mr. Murphy read over all of his writings printed or in manuscript which he could find, and copied in English extracts from all the passages where the writer referred to America or to New Netherland. No memoir has ever yet been published of this industrious, active and eloquent man, but we are happy to know that one is being prepared. The unique matter in these manuscripts is worth all the rest of the purchases made at the sale, and it is pleasant to think that they can now bide their time in all safety in the New Capitol.

Other purchases at this sale were of works relating to the history of our Canadian neighbors on the north, and of our Mexican neighbors on the south, with whose capitol we have become united with bonds of steel during the past year. Our own peculiar history has been enriched with the rare supplemental volume to Van Meteren's History of the Netherlands, which was published in 1611, and contains the first printed account of the voyage of Hudson up the North river to Albany in 1609. Two fac similes of letters of Columbus, and one of a letter of Americus Vespuccius in Spanish, printed in Rome in 1881, with an Italian translation appeal to those who love minute completeness. The edition of Eusebius Chronicon, by Henry Stephens, at Paris in 1512, which is another of these acquisitions, contains under the year 1509 an account of seven Indians brought from Newfoundland in that year to France by Aubert, with a description of the Indians. We added also to the library the collection which we ought to have possessed long since, Jomard's Monuments de la Géographic, consisting of fifty early maps published in fac simile at Paris, commencing in 1854. The Mémoires Chronologiques pour servir à l'histoire de Dieppe, published at Paris anonymously in 1785 in two small volumes by Desmarquets, have the interesting features that under the date of 1508, they speak of the voyage of Verazzano in the discovery of the St. Lawrence river, and of Dieppe navigators who discovered the Amazon in 1488. The work is one of the rarest in this country, although Mr. J. C. Brevoort has long been in possession of a copy. Mr. Brevoort, in this connection, I will mention as having given to the library this year a copy of the original edition of the Argonautica Gustaviana, by Usselinex, and printed in Frankfort in 1633. It is probably more rare than the preceding work.

Other additions, are a copy of the original edition of Johnson's Wonder working providence, London, 1654, containing the history of New England from 1628 to 1652; twenty-nine volumes of the Maüs Society publications relating to the Isle of Man; Colburn's New Monthly Magazine, 1821 to 1870, in 146 volumes; Kort en bondigh Verhael, Amsterdam, 1667, being an account of the war between England and the Netherlands to the peace of Breda, and containing the first printed account of the loss of New Netherland by the Dutch; and others of perhaps equal interest.

Among the valuable gifts to the library have been several loads of public documents from the Comptroller, the Hon. A. C. Chapin. They were the collections of several years, for which there was no use in the office, and which were liable to be disposed of for waste paper. His thoughtfulness not only secured for the library, books which will be useful for exchanges for many years to come, but secured for the law library, more than a dozen volumes printed at the expense of the State for investigating committees, which had never been sent to the library. The testimony taken before such committees does not enter into the regular series of State documents, and only a very small number of copies is printed for those especially concerned. The Hon. Erastus Corning has given to the library over 1,200 volumes of New York State and United States documents, which come from the library of his father, Hon. E. Corning and from his own. The State may well be grateful to the kind consideration and good judgment which appreciates the importance of saving such material for the years so near at hand when they will have become what will be called rare and scarce.

The additions of manuscripts have been exceedingly valuable. The Legislature of 1884, at the request of the trustees of the library, made an appropriation of five thousand dollars for the "purchase of the original correspondence and other papers of Daniel D. Tompkins, Governor of the State of New-York from 1807 to 1817 and Vice-President of the United States from 1817 to 1824." This correspondence has been received at the library too late to allow of giving any detailed description of them. For the present we can say only that the collection contains the official copies of as many as three thousand letters written by Governor Tompkins, and over twenty-five hundred of letters received by him, the larger part of them having reference to the war of 1812, the theatre of which was so largely on the frontiers of the State of New York. Besides these there are nearly two thousand other papers of general military orders, accounts and miscellaneous papers. After the Governor G. Clinton papers, this new accession constitutes the most important addition to the history of the first one hundred years of the State, that it will ever be possible to secure.

Dr. Philip Ten Eyck of Albany has presented to the library the original proceedings in manuscript, in the handwriting of A. B. Bancker, one of the Secretaries of the State Convention at Poughkeepsie in the summer of 1788, held for the purpose of deciding whether the State should ratify the new proposed constitution of the United States. Before the adjournment of the convention it was ordered that the ratification, with a declaration of rights in twenty-two articles, and explanatory amendments in thirty-two articles, with the journal of the proceedings should be deposited by one of the secretaries in the office of the Secretary of State. The ratification was duly deposited, inscribed with the Constitution, upon six sheets of parchment, and has lately been duly lettered to indicate the importance of this monument of the State; but the journal of proceedings has remained till the present time in private hands. Besides the proceedings, this valuable gift contains the official copy of the circular letter to the Governors of the States, asking for the co-operation of their States in securing the desired amendments to the Constitution, and also, there are attached to this letter the original signatures of forty-seven of the members of the convention, the Clintons, Livingstons, Jay, Hamilton, etc. The journal of the convention gives no reason to surmise that any one signed the letter except the president, Governor Clinton. Those who voted against the adoption of the Constitution signed this circular equally with those who voted for it. The trustees of the State library are greatly indebted to the donor for his generosity in giving this extremely interesting volume to the safe-keeping of the Capitol.

The library has purchased from Mr. H. B. Dawson, manuscript copies of unpublished papers and correspondence of General John Lacey, a general in the war of the revolution, an amount equal to 1,800 ordinary folio pages. They contain his autobiography, his journal to Ohio in 1773, his order books in 1776, 1778, 1780 and 1781, his correspondence and miscellaneous papers. Its peculiar value is that General Lacey's services were in New York city, at Sorel, Isle aux Noix, Ticonderoga and with Washington at Valley Forge. There are copies of many letters to General Lacey from General Washington. The volume it is believed will be found to have great historical value.

Work in the library, to render it more useful to the State for the purposes for which it is established, could be performed much more effectively with additional help, to catalogue more carefully to subject-index the contents of the library in great detail, to correspond with institutions and individuals for perfecting the series of their publications, and for assorting and binding the collected pamphlets.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY A. HOMES,
Librarian of the General Library.

APPENDIX II.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN OF THE LAW LIBRARY.

STATE LIBRARY, December 31, 1884.

To the Regents of the University of the State of New York:

This report covers the period from January first to September thirtieth of the present year, in conformity to your decision to close the library year on the thirtieth day of September in each calendar year, commencing with the year 1884. During this period, nine hundred and thirteen volumes were added to the law library, which increased the total number of volumes contained in this department on the thirtieth day of September last, to thirty-five thousand nine hundred and fifty-five.

The character of the books added has not varied materially from that of former years, a large part being continuations of American, British and Colonial reports, statutes, law periodicals and standard elementary works.

The effort to supply existing deficiencies in the collection of American statute law, which was begun in the year 1883, has been continued with the aid of the special appropriation for the purchase of books from the Brinley sale, which was made available, also for the purchase of statutes, by the last Legislature. As the result of such effort, one hundred and nine volumes of the session laws of twenty-seven States and Territories have been added to this collection by purchase. The one hundred volumes of statutes needed to supply the deficiencies which still remain in the library collection are among the rarest, and can be obtained only after much search and at considerable cost. It is believed, however, that the importance and value of this collection to the library will fully justify a continuance of the effort to secure the volumes necessary to its completion.

A valuable donation has been made to the law library by the Hon. William L. Learned, of Albany, consisting of a complete collection of the printed papers in cases heard at the general terms of the Supreme Court in the third judicial department during the years 1875 to 1883, inclusive. This collection embraces upwards of 10,000 separate papers and has been bound in one hundred and sixty-three octavo volumes and placed upon the shelves. An index thereto has been made by the assistant librarian, with the aid of which the papers in any case may be readily found.

The subject-index of the law library, the publication of which was authorized by chapter 306 of the Laws of 1881, was issued from the press in January last, and distribution of the same has been made in the manner directed by the aforesaid statute. It has proved to be of great service in facilitating researches in the library, and it must be regarded as specially unfortunate that an edition large enough to supply copies to some extent, at least, to members of the bar was not authorized by the Legislature.

Respectfully submitted,

STEPHEN B. GRISWOLD,
Librarian of the Law Library.

APPENDIX III.

To the Regents of the University :

The undersigned respectfully submits the following report :

The George Clinton Papers first placed in my hands were duly calendarized and bound in 23 volumes. The calendar comprised 6,347 numbers, representing, I believe, more than 7,000 papers. Upon the death of George Clinton, the great mass of his papers, public and private, personal and political, passed into the hands of his personal representatives, and, somehow, became long after divided into two principal portions which passed into different hands. The 23 volumes I have mentioned embrace the larger, and probably more valuable portion, and the papers therein mainly relate to the history of our State during the Revolution, but with scattering papers, often of great interest, subsequent to the acknowledgment of our independence and the evacuation of New York, down to June 1, 1800. The second portion was purchased in 1883, and is mentioned at some length in my report of January, 1884. It consisted of a huge and undigested mass of papers, which from a brief and cursory examination of it made by me before its purchase, I concluded contained some which were desirable for the completion and elucidation of the portions I had in hand, and others of importance to history and biography reaching down to some time subsequent to the death of George Clinton. Mr. Homes, the librarian, placed the mass in the hands of Mr. Fernow to be examined and arranged ; and Mr. Fernow has, I doubt not, discharged that duty with his usual sound judgment and thoroughness. From these recently acquired papers these gentlemen selected and added to Vol. 23 a blank of the permits of the emperor Napoleon to American vessels, the permits being to import into France named products of the French colonies in the West Indies and India, and of the late Dutch possessions in the east, on condition that the vessel exported one-half of the value of its imports in French wines and brandies, and the other half in named products and manufactures of France ; a printed circular of the General Committee of Republicans in the city and county of New York, dated March 14, 1804, favoring the election of Morgan Lewis as Governor, and opposing Aaron Burr, and signed by De Witt Clinton and others ; an undated and unsigned statement, probably made by Gen. James Clinton, the oldest son — but perhaps by Catharine McClaghry, a daughter of Charles Clinton — touching the emigration of that gentleman from Ireland and settlement in Little Britain, and the history of his family ; a conveyance by Bargain and Sale to Nathaniel Griffen of a lot of land in Whitestown, dated July 22, 1790, executed by George Washington and George Clinton, of the city of New York, Esquires, and having thereon indorsed certificates of the proof of its execution by the oath of De Witt Clinton, a subscribing witness, and of its record in the county of Herkimer. From the remaining mass Mr. Fernow selected and had bound in eleven volumes, 2,300 papers which he deemed worthy of being added to the original series. And so the George Clinton papers in my charge, at present, are comprised in 8,647 continuous numbers, the numbers sometimes embracing two or more papers, bound in 34 volumes.

During the year I have resolutely adhered to the course I marked out for myself at the beginning of my labors ; but with the utmost diligence I was unable to insert the concluding entry in my index of the first 23 volumes, or 6,311 numbers, until on or about the third day of January instant. I shall have missed my aim and be most bitterly disappointed if that index do not make easily accessible to every searcher every thing in those volumes which can possibly be of use in settling family and local history, as well as in elucidating the history of our State, and vindicating the claims of its earlier patriots and statesmen to that reverence which fallible humanity can justly feel for heroic, unselfish and wise men.

I have collected material and references to enable me to prepare a system of notes, to be drawn mainly from our statutes and the journals of our Legislature and of Congress, but to include supplementary matter also, without which it would be impossible to clearly understand much of the matter of these papers and appreciate the conduct of our ancestors. But in this direction much remains to be done.

The question now arises whether I shall go on and make an index of the added volumes, or whether I shall stop short and proceed at once to perfect my system of notes, and make and prepare for publication a selection of papers from all the volumes, and make an index for that. Papers included in the last 11 volumes are necessary to perfect a judicious selection from the first 23 volumes, but, the last eleven volumes being without calendar or index, the selection of papers from it must involve a labor approaching that required to prepare the material for an index of those volumes. In the frankness due, as I deem it, to my own position and duty in this matter, I state my own impression that the better way is to prepare at once a calendar and index of the added volumes, and to blend that index with the index I have prepared of the first 23 volumes, and to have two or more copies of that index of the whole collection carefully engrossed and preserved in the library ; and then to select the papers which, in the judgment of the Board, shall be deemed worthy of wide diffusion. The general index will make the preparation of an index of the selected matter a comparatively easy labor, and the needed notes will be nearly all at hand.

I submit these questions to your better judgment, and respectfully ask for the advice and direction of the Board.

Since the cursory inspection of the papers in the added volumes which I made before their purchase, I have had no time which could be given to a critical examination of them. As I stated in my last report, I believe that many of them are of value. I have only been able to commence a calendar of the first of these volumes, and to ascertain the substance of the papers from No. 6,312 to No. 6,526. I am free to say that a large majority of those papers relate to George Clinton's ownership, leasings and sales of portions of the Little Nine Partners and of Coxe's Patents, and that but little interest, other than local or genealogical, can attach to them; but there are others which have so pleased me that I am sure they will please you, and I will read a few of them and so enliven the necessary dullness of this report. But first let me remark that in these papers the love of our forefathers for honorary prefixes and titles is very clearly exhibited. Esquire was in their day an addition of much distinction. A man below the dignity of justice of the peace was merely Mr.; the magistrate and dignitaries ranking a long way above him were Esquires. Letters to George Clinton, the then Governor of the State, were not infrequently addressed to him as His Excellency, George Clinton, Esquire.

Alexander Hamilton was born in St. Nevis, June 11, 1757, and, of course, was 21 years old in June, 1778. It was due to his good fortune which brought him very early in contact with great men, and made him familiar with the most momentous questions, as well as to the precocity of his genius, that he attained, while yet in the gristle, a fame and an influence in affairs which made an ineradicable impression upon our institutions and conferred immortality upon his memory. In 1778 he was an aide-de-camp of Washington, and we have two letters of his to George Clinton in that year. In 1783, he was one of the New York delegates to Congress, and in that capacity wrote another letter to Governor Clinton, which we also have. I have a strong impression that some of these letters are in print, but I have not time to inquire into the correctness of that impression. I will now read them to you:

No. 6407a.

[From Alex. Hamilton to Geo. Clinton.]

HEAD QUARTERS, Feb'y 13, 1778.

DEAR SIR — I did myself the honor of writing to you, immediately after my arrival at head-quarters, in answer to two letters I found here from you.

There is a matter which often obtrudes itself upon my mind, and which requires the attention of every person of sense and influence among us — I mean a degeneracy of representation in the great council of America. It is a melancholy truth, Sir, and the effects of which we dayly see and feel, that there is not so much wisdom in a certain body, as there ought to be, and as the success of our affairs absolutely demands. Many members of it are no doubt men in every respect, fit for the trust; but this cannot be said of it as a body. Folly, caprice, a want of foresight, comprehension and dignity, characterize the general tenor of their action. Of this I dare say, you are sensible, though you have not perhaps so many opportunities of knowing it as I have. Their conduct with respect to the army especially is feeble, indecisive and improvident — insomuch, that we are reduced to a more terrible situation than you can conceive. False and contracted views of economy have prevented them, though repeatedly urged to it, from making that provision for officers which was requisite to interest them in the service; which has produced such carelessness and indifference to the service, as is subversive of every officer-like quality. They have disgusted the army by repeated instances of the most whimsical favouritisms in their promotions; and by an absurd prodigality of rank to foreigners and to the meanest staff of the army. They have not been able to summon resolution enough to withstand the impudent importunity and vain boasting of foreign pretenders; but have manifested such a ductility and inconstancy in their proceedings, as will warrant the charge of suffering themselves to be bullied, by every petty rascal who comes armed with ostentatious pretensions of military merit and experience. Would you believe it, Sir, it is become almost proverbial in the mouths of the french officers and other foreigners, that they have nothing more to do, to obtain whatever they please, than to assume a high tone and assert their own merit with confidence and perseverance? These things wound my feelings as a republican more than I can express; and in some degree make me contemptible in my own eyes.

By injudicious changes and arrangements in the Commissary's department, in the middle of a campaign, they have exposed the army frequently to temporary want and to the danger of a dissolution, from absolute famine. At this very day there are complaints from the whole line, of having been three or four days without provision; desertions have been immense, and strong features of mutiny begin to show themselves. It is indeed to be wondered at, that the soldiery have manifested so unparalleled a degree of patience, as they have. If effectual measures are not speedily adopted, I know not how we shall keep the army together or make another campaign.

I omit saying anything of the want of Cloathing for the army. It may be disputed whether more could have been done than has been done.

If you look into their conduct in the civil line, you will equally discover a deficiency of energy, dignity and extensiveness of views; but of this you can better judge than myself, and it is unnecessary to particularize.

America once had a representation, that would do honor to any age or nation. The present falling off is very alarming and dangerous. What is the cause ? or how is it to be remedied ? are questions that the welfare of these States requires should be well attended to. The great men who composed our first council ; are they dead, have they deserted the cause, or what has become of them ? Very few are dead and still fewer have deserted the cause ; they are all, except the few who still remain in Congress, either in the field, or in the civil officers,* of their respective States ; far the greater part are engaged in the latter. The only remedy is to take them out of these employments and return them to the place, where their presence is infinitely more important.

Each State in order to promote its own internal government and prosperity, has selected its members to fill the offices within itself, and conduct its own affairs. Men have been fonder of the emoluments and conveniences, of being employed at home ; and local attachment, falsely operating, has made them more provident for the particular interest of the States, to which they belonged than for the common interests of the confederacy. This is a most pernicious mistake, and must be corrected. However important it is to give form and efficiency to your interior consultations and police ; it is infinitely more important to have a wise general council ; otherwise a failure of the measures of the union will overturn all your labours for the advancement of your particular good, and ruin the common cause. You should not beggar the councils of the United States to enrich the administration of the several members. Realize to yourself the consequences of having a Congress despised at home and abroad. How can the common force be exerted, if the power of collecting it be put in weak, foolish and unsteady hands. How can we hope for success in our European negotiations, if the nations of Europe have no confidence in the wisdom and vigor, of the great Continental Government ? This is the object on which their eyes are fixed ; hence it is America will derive its importance or insignificance in their estimation.

Arguments to you Sir, need not be multiplied to enforce the necessity of having a good general council, neither do I think we shall very widely differ as to the fact that the present is very far from being such. The sentiments I have advanced are not fit for the vulgar ear ; and circumstanced as I am, I should with caution utter them except to those in whom I may place an intire confidence. But it is time that men of weight and understanding should take the alarm ; and excite each other to a proper remedy. For my part my insignificance allows me to do nothing more than to hint my apprehensions to those of that description who are pledged to favour me with their confidence. In this view, I write to you.

As far, as I can judge, the remarks I have made do not apply nearly so much to your State as to the other twelve. You have a

* So in the original.

Duane a Morris and may I not add a Duer? But why do you not send your Jay and your R. R. Livingston? I wish General Schuyler was either explicitly in the army or in the Congress. For yourself Sir, though I mean no compliment, you must not be spared from where you are.

But the design of this letter is not so much that you may use your influence, on improving or enlarging your own representation, as in, discreetly giving the alarm to other States, through the medium of your confidential friends. Indeed Sir, it is necessary there should be a change. America will shake to its center if there is not.

You and I had some conversation when I had the pleasure of seeing you last with respect to the existence of a certain faction. Since I saw you, I have discovered such convincing traits of the monster, that I cannot doubt its reality in the most extensive sense: I dare say, you have seen and heard enough to settle the matter in your mind. I believe it unmasked its batteries too soon and begins to hide its head; but as I imagine it will only change the storm to a jar; all the true and sensible friends to their country, and of course to a certain great man, ought to be upon the watch, to counterplot the machinations of his enemies. Have you heard anything of Conway's History? He is one of the vermin bred in the entrails of this chimera dire, and there does not exist a more villainous calumniator and incendiary. He has gone to Albany on a certain expedition.

I am with great regard and respect, Sir,

Your most obed. servant

ALEX. HAMILTON.

[From Geo. Clinton to Alex. Hamilton.]

POUGHKEEPSIE, 5th March, 1778.

DEAR SIR — I have received your Favor of the 13th Feby' last; your other letter has not yet reached me. I am so circumstanced at present, so much to do and No Body to assist me, that I can hardly steal a moment to write to my friends. This letter always affords me the greatest pleasure. May I then hope, Sir, that you will continue to write me frequently, tho I should not prove a very punctual correspondent, when I shall have more leisure I hereby promise to pay the Debt with Interest. I wish the Defects of a certain great Body were less apparent. Even their Want of Wisdom which is but too Evident in most of their Measures would in that case be less Injurious — a New Mode of doing Business by Proxy is very fashionable. Whenever any alarming Difficulty arise they are referred to the New B. of W. V. by them to the Executive Power of the different States — this alone is a glaring Evidence of Weakness and Incapacity.

Could our Soldiery subsist on Resolves, They would never want Food or Cloathing. Resolves are not Powerful Expedients. They are to fill to Cloath the Feed our Armies, at least this is the Language which the late Conduct of our Masters speak.

I need not ask you who contrived and planned the Northern Expedition. I have seen the Marquis's Instructions. They are a Curiosity indeed. They suppose the Enemy are to be pannic struck, & will fly on the approach of our Army. Our army, you may be assured, were to take the advantage of this & pursue them & take Possession of Montreal with all the Public Stores and Cloathing therein, &c., &c.!

What a Pitty we had not Men sufficient to have carried all this into Execution & that those we had were not cloathed or paid & that Provisions & Forage had not been provided in Season.

I wish Jay or Livingston or both in Congress, tho they could be illly spared from here) but this cannot be at present.

I am, Dr. Sr.

I take for granted that Military Men burn Confidential Letters for fear of Accidents as soon as they are read.

No. 6410.

[From Alex. Hamilton to Geo. Clinton.]

HEAD-QUARTERS, March 12th, 1778.

SIR — Capt. Coleman delivered me your two letters of the 5th & 6th instant.

The pleasure I have, in corresponding with you, will dispose me, whenever I have any thing to communicate that may be worth your attention, or that appears to me so — to trouble you with my sentiments. But I shall not expect you to make an equal return either in quantity or frequency. You will in this intirely consult your own convenience.

I had previously flattered myself, that your ideas and mine would correspond, in a certain matter, and I am glad to find I was not mistaken. I doubt not the effects of a certain Synod, will appear to you not the subject of Speculation only; but as disorders in the State, that require a remedy, and will as far as your influence reaches, contribute to it. Shall I speak what seems to me a most melancholy truth? It is this — that with the most adequate means to insure success in our contest, the weakness of our councils will, in all probability ruin us. Arrangements on which the existence of the army depends, and almost the possibility of another campaign, are delayed in a most astonishing manner; and I doubt whether they will be adopted at all.

A late resolve directs G. W. to fix the number of men under which G. H. shall not find any parties out of his lines, on pain of being treated as marauders. The folly of this is truly ridiculous ; but as there is perhaps nothing but folly in it, it may be excused in them. Another resolve made for punishing kidnappers or persons who aid the enemy in carrying off the peaceable inhabitants has a retrospective view to those who have assisted, as well as a perspective one to those who shall assist in such practices. Thus we have gotten into the spirit of making ex post facto laws, or rather violating all law. Another resolve, by plain implication, acknowledges a thing not founded in fact, which is very injurious to us — to wit, that we have enlisted prisoners of war. This silences all our complaints about the enemy for a similar practice, and furnishes them with a damning answer to any thing we can say on the subject. This is at least an instance of folly and inconsideration, and serves to prove the general charge.

These men seem also to have embraced a system of infidelity. They have violated the convention of Saratoga; and I have reason to believe the ostensible motive for it, were little better than pretences, that had no foundation. I have lately seen some letters from Burgoyne on the subject. There was, however, a strong temptation for this, and it may be excused, though I cannot say the measure is to my taste. Lately, a flag with provisions and cloathing for the British prisoners, with G. W.'s passport was fired at Lancaster. The affair was attended with circumstances of violence and meanness that would disgrace Hottentots. Still more lately — G. W. engagements with G. H. for an exchange of prisoners, has been most shamefully violated. C—o have resolved that no exchange shall take place till all accounts are settled and the balance due the U. S. paid. The beauty of it is — on a fair settlement we shall without doubt be in Mr. Howe's debt ; and in the meantime we detain his officers and soldiers, as a security for the payment. The operation of this resolve, though it does not plainly appear upon the face of it, is to put off an exchange — perhaps forever. At any rate it cannot take place all next summer.

It is thought to be bad policy to go into an exchange ; but admitting this to be true, it is much worse policy to commit such frequent Breaches of faith, and ruin our national character. Whatever refined politicians may think — it is of great consequence to preserve a national character, and if it should once seem to be a system in any State to violate its faith whenever it is the least inconvenient to keep it, it will unquestionably have an ill effect upon foreign negotiations and tend to bring Government at home into contempt, and of course to destroy its influence. The general notions of justice and humanity are implanted in almost every human breast ; and ought not to be too freely shocked. In the present case — the passions of the country and army are on the side of an exchange ; and a studied attempt to avoid it will disgust both, and serve to make the service odious. It will injure drafting and recruiting, discourage the militia & increase the discontents of the army. The prospect of hopeless captivity cannot but be very disagreeable to men constantly exposed to the shame of it. Those whose lot it is to fall into it, will have little scruple to get out of it by joining the enemy.

It is said not to be our present interest to exchange, because we should endeavor, by and by, to take advantage of the enemy's weakness to strike some decisive blow. If we should fail in this, which I believe we shall — when they get reinforced — we shall not think it our interest to add to the strength of an enemy; already strong enough and so on ad infinitum.

The truth is considered in the mere view of barter, it never can be our interest to exchange; the constitution of our army, from the short term of enlistment, the dependence we are obliged to place in the militia, are strongly opposed to it; and if the argument of present interest be adhered to, we never can exchange. I may venture to assert, there never can be a time more proper than the present, or rather a month or two hence; and go about it as soon as we please, the previous negotiations necessary, and other circumstances, will of course procrastinate it for some time. And I would ask, whether in a republican State, and a republican army, such a cruel policy as that of exposing those men, who are foremost in defence of their country to the miseries of hopeless captivity — can succeed?

For my own part I have so much of the milk of humanity in me, that I abhor such Neronian maxims; and I look upon the old proverb, that honesty is the best policy to be so generally true, that I can never expect any good from a systematical deviation from it; and I never can adopt the reason of some American politicians deducible from their practices that no regard is to be paid to national character — or rules of good faith.

I dwell upon the faults of Congress because I think that they strike at the vitals of our opposition and of our future prosperity — and with this idea — I cannot but wish that every Gentleman of influence in the country should think with me.

We have nothing new in Camp — save that Capt. Barry, late of a Continental frigate, has destroyed with a few gunboats — two large ships belonging to the enemy, laden with forage from Rhode Island. He also took an armed schooner, which he has since been obliged to run on shore, after a gallant defense. 'Tis said he has saved her cannon & stores — among the ordnance four brass howitzers. Some acco'ts say the enemy are preparing to evacuate Philadelphia.

Sed credit Judas apellius non ego.

I have the honor to be with unfeigned esteem and Respect, Sir, your most obed't,

A. HAMILTON.

No. 6442.

[From Alex. Hamilton to Geo. Clinton.]

Jan., 1783.

SIR — I am honored with your Excellency's letter of the 29th of December — I have received an order from Colonel Hay on Mr. Sands, which I have no doubt will shortly be paid. I have felt no inconvenience from not having the money sooner.

Since my last to you we have received no further accounts from Europe, so that we remain in the same uncertainty with respect to the negotiations for peace. Whether it will take place or not is a problem of difficult solution. The duplicity and unsteadiness for which Lord Shelburne is remarkable will not justify any confidence in his intentions, and the variety of interests to be conciliated in a treaty of peace, with the best dispositions on all sides, must render it a work of difficulty. I suspect too the Spaniards and the Dutch will have large demands.

We have now here a deputation from the army and feel the mortification of a total disability to comply with their just expectations. If, however, the matter is taken up in a proper manner, I think their application may be turned to a good account. Every day proves more and more the insufficiency of the confederation. The proselytes to this opinion are increasing fast, and many of the most sensible men acknowledge the wisdom of the measure recommended by your Legislature at their last sitting. Various circumstances conspire at this time to incline to the adoption of it, and I am not without hope it may ere long take place. But I am far from being sanguine.

We are deliberating on some mode for carrying that article of the Confederation into execution which respects the valuation of lands to ascertain the quotas of the Several States. None has yet been proposed that appears to me eligible. I confess I dislike the principle altogether, but we are tied down by the Confederation.

The affairs of the grants have been no further touched since the resolutions transmitted you. It is a business in which nobody cares to act with decision. As intimated before I much doubt the perseverance of Congress, if military coercion should become necessary. I am clear the only chance the Legislature have for a recovery of any part of the revolted territory is by a compromise with New Hampshire, and this compromise must originate between the States themselves. I hope the Legislature will revise the late act for confirming the possessions of those who hold land in that country. I am certain there are doubts upon the subject, and it were much to be wished such doubts did not exist. The present dissatisfaction of the army is much opposed to any experiment of force in a service where scruples of interest or prejudice may operate.

I have the honor to be with perfect respect and esteem,
Yr. Excellencys most Obed. & huml. Serv.

A. HAMILTON.

This volume 24 also includes the following correspondence of Washington and George Clinton with each other, which is altogether new to me, although I dare not say that it is not in print:

No. 6499.

[From Geo. Clinton to Geo. Washinhton.]

NEW YORK, 10th March, 1789.

DEAR SIR — It is more than probable that when the Result of the late Election for President of the United States shall be disclosed, your Excellency's Presence will be required in this City. Under this Impression permit me Sir to solicit the honor of your Company at my House until Suitable Accommodations can be provided for you. Should Mrs. Washington accompany you it will give additional Pleasure to my Family.

I shall be greatly gratified by being seasonably apprised of your Excellency's Approach to this City that I may be prepared to receive you in a manner which will accord as well with the high Respect due to you as the personal Attachment and Esteem I have for you.

With respectful Compliments to Mrs. Washington in which Mrs. Clinton joins me,

I have the Honor to be Dear Sir

Your Most Obed. Servt.

His Excellency, GENERAL WASHINGTON.

[From Geo. Washington to Geo. Clinton.]

MOUNT VERNON, March 25, 1789

DEAR SIR — With very great sensibility, I have received the honor of your letter dated the 10th inst. and consider the Kind and obliging invitation to your house until suitable accommodations can be provided for the President, as a testimony of your friendship and politeness, for which I shall ever retain a grateful sense. But if it should be by lot (for Heaven knows it is not my wish) to appear again in a public station, I shall make it a point to take hired lodgings, or rooms in a Tavern, until some house can be provided. Because it would be wrong, in my real judgment, to impose such a burden on any private family, as must unavoidably be occasioned by my company: and because I think it would be generally expected that being supported by the Public at large, I should not be burdensome to individuals.

With respect to the other part of your letter — which is expressive of a wish to be apprised of the time of my approach to the city, I can assure you, with the utmost sincerity, that no reception can be so congenial to my feelings, as a quiet entry, devoid of ceremony be the manner of it what it may.

With sincere good wishes and respectfull compliments to Mrs. Clinton in which I am joined by Mrs Washington, I am &c.

GEO. WASHINGTON.

His Excellency Gov. CLINTON.

[From Geo. Clinton to Geo. Washington.]

NEW YORK, 23d April, 1789.

DEAR SIR—I have been honored with your Letter of the 25th of last Month. I begg leave to assure your Excellency that had you found it convenient to have given us your Company at my House instead of being Burdensome it would have afforded my Family the highest Pleasure & Satisfaction. We must however acquiesce in your Determinations & I do it with the less Reluctance as I observe the Arrangements made by the Senate and Representatives for your Reception appear to correspond with the Sentiments expressed by your Excellency.

Permit me Sir now however to solicit the Honor of the Company of your Excellency & Suite at Dinner on the Day of your Arrival in this City and to request that you will take a Bed at my House that Night. I flatter myself this will not be denied, as I presume it cannot interfere with any other arrangement.

I have the Honor to be dear Sir with sincere Esteem & Respect Your Most Obedt Servant
His Excellency GENERAL WASHINGTON.

It sometimes seems to me that in the great old time when our liberties were won and the original foundations of the government which, under Providence, secured them forever were laid, some of our statesmen fell behind rather than surpassed the general sentiment in their notions of the sphere within which, and the instrumentalities by which government can maintain justice and promote equality and happiness among a free people. But time is continually presenting new conditions of affairs, and with the changed conditions, policy and law must change or be injurious. Naught but that wisdom which loves justice, promotes morality and diffuses love and knowledge is eternally beneficent. It is very pleasant to believe, and I think these George Clinton papers tend to prove it, that in the hearts of our chiefest statesmen of the older time that wisdom was predominant. I have been as happy as an old man can be in my work upon them. A noble act—much more an honorable life—is of a moral beauty that deserves the recognition of our race and should last forever in its memory, and the George Clinton papers are rich in such records as well as in the proofs it furnishes of wise State action.

I thank you, my dear fellow Regents for your continued kindness and confidence, and humbly pray that, under your auspices, I may live to finish the precious work you have assigned to me.

G. W. CLINTON.

ALBANY, January 8, 1885.

APPENDIX IV.

To the Honorable the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York :

The register of soldiers, non-commissioned and commissioned officers, who served in the New York line of the Continental army, in the levies and in the militia, during the war of the Revolution, upon which I have been engaged for some time past, is now so far advanced that I would submit to the Honorable Board of Regents the propriety of following the example set in this regard by the States of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, by publishing the rolls of their soldiers during the same period, if the Honorable the Legislature deem it fit to allow an appropriation for that purpose. I feel confident that such a publication would forever silence the reproach that New York did not enter into the struggle for liberty and independence as heartily and as early as the other Colonies.

Hidden in one of the volumes lately added to the collection of historical manuscripts under my charge, from the records in the Comptroller's office, I discovered some loose sheets of Marriage Bonds, attesting the marriages of the following persons :

I give these lists of names here, that the possessors of the volume of "New York Marriages" printed in 1860, may complete the record, as far as it is possible. The forty volumes of Marriage Bonds, of which the above quoted volume is the index, do not by any means represent all the marriages in the Colony of New York during the twenty-five years immediately preceding the war of the Revolution ; while the importance of having these records of marriages and all the other records of the State in the utmost completeness is demonstrated by the suit now pending in the courts of Great Britain for the succession in the earldom of Lauderdale and a yearly income of £20,000, the result of which depends on the production of a marriage bond and petition, both at one time probably among the records of the State, but destroyed or lost many years ago.

The time spent in searching for the just mentioned and for other papers bearing upon the same suit ; in answering questions, which only great familiarity with the historical records or a tedious search in them enables a man to answer, and the want of a law or rule establishing a table of fees to be charged for the spending of so much time suggests the propriety of making such an order, which I here-with submit to your honorable body.

The additional collection of Clinton MSS., to which I referred in my report of last year, have under my supervision been partly secured in volumes, like those containing the original collection, partly bound in solid volumes. The first, 12 in number, contain all the letters, numbering 2,300, found in the lot, the others, 11 in number, contain the papers referring to the transactions of Governor George Clinton in real estate, and giving the financial history of the early settlers on the Kayaderosseras Patent (Saratoga county), Little Nine Partners (Dutchess county), Banyar's, Sumner's, Skinner's, Fonda's and Wallace's Patent (Oneida, Montgomery and Onondaga counties).

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. FERNOW.
